We will be having our first annual corn and soybean college on Friday, Feb 10th from 10:00 am to 12:00 noon in the Meadowlark Room at the Sedgwick County Extension Center. This is not a seed meeting but a crop production meeting aimed at improving your yields and giving you some agronomic insight for the coming year. We will have Bryce Probst who is the regional Agronomist with Winfield Solutions, and Caleb McNally who is area Agronomist with Winfield Solutions putting on the classes. The class will be followed by lunch and we will also be giving away several door prizes. I hope you will make plans to attend this, so we can start having more programs like this in the future. Please RSVP to one of your Agronomy locations if you can make it. There will also be a flyer in the mail to remind you.

Thank You
